Manipesto ng Pagsuporta Para sa Tunay na Halal ng mga Imuseño

Kami, mga mamamayan ng makasaysayang bayan ng Imus, lalawigan ng Cavite, na ginagabayen ng diwa ng pagkakaisa at pakikibaka para sa demokrasya ng aming mga bayaning ninuno, ay sama-samang naninindigan para sa katarungan laban sa pagpapastangan ng mga indibidwal na may pansariling interes sa sagrado naming mga bato ngong nakarang halalan.

Bunsod nito, kami ay naniniwala at pumapangit sa naging pagpapasya ng hukuman, partikular ang Regional Trial Court, Branch 22, 4th Judicial Region sa Imus, Cavite, sa initabas nitong resolusyon noong ika-16 ng Nobyembre 2011, sa kasong "Emmanuel L. Maliksi vs. Homer Saquilayan", EPC No. 009-13, na nagsasabi:

"Wherefore, in view of all the foregoing, this Court finds the Election Protest filed by Emmanuel L. Maliksi maritorious. Accordingly, Emmanuel L. Maliksi is hereby DECLARED as the duly elected Mayor of the Municipality of Imus, Province of Cavite after having obtained the highest number of legal votes..."

Para sa amin, kahit ano pang paniliinang at pagliligaw sa katotohanan ang gawin ng mga nagmamaniobra ng resulta ng nakaraang eleksyon sa aming bayan, hindi kamiing naniniwala na ang bunga ng pakikipaglaban ni Mayor Emmanuel "Manry" Malibay ay ang siyang nagmamaniwala Saing ng mga muna.

P-Noy resigned to Pinoy's fate

By Marivic Bautista

IT SEEMS President Aquino is resigned to the fate of the enormous Philippine warship (OPV) sinking, awaiting a coroner in China's waters.

Nonetheless, his dignity is waiting for his Chinese counterpart. The latter's reply to his letter requesting a coronation of the wreckage wrecked on the Philippine subject under local guilt of a drug trafficking charge.

"I'm still awaiting a reply from the latter that I sent President Hu Jintao last June that we did appeal to them, we were not able to secure a coronation for these (two) men, instead, previously," President Aquino said in a news conference Sunday.

President Aquino said Vice President Jejomar Binay at his special visit to the Chinese government in asking for relief for the three OPVs that were stranded earlier this year at not being involved in drug trafficking.

The situation was depicted last week personally to President Hu.

"We have communicated the same (two) and again, to our Chinese counterparts and to their Embassy officials, they assured and replied that there is a serious problem with drugs in their country and this has gone through judicial process," President Aquino said following the due process and the continued implementation of the death penalty in China.

Gov't flies kin of doomed drug mule to China

By Devina Baling

THE PHILIPPINE government has flown to China four family members of a 31-year-old Filipino drug trafficking convict scheduled to be executed in January.

The family members left on a China Airlines flight to the Chinese Embassy in Manila City on the eve of President Aquino's December 16 visit to Beijing for the commemoration of the death anniversary of a Filipino martyr.

Department of Foreign Affairs spokespersons said the family members, three women and one man, were accompanied by a Philippine consular official in their flight to Shanghai.

"They will be accompanied by our consulate there. A visit has already been scheduled so that they can speak to him," he said.

Request for privacy

Binay said the family is stated in their privacy and requested that their flight details kept confidential. Sources in the Jejomar Binay Administration (JBA), however, said the family members, but at least China Southern Airlines flight CA-9802 that left Yantai December 7 to Shanghai at around 12:10 pm.

"I met them a few moments ago before their flight and they are really in a sad state. They're still hoping that the sentence on their brother will be commuted to life imprisonment," he said.

From Guangzhou, the family members will be brought in the consular, who is registered in the city of Guilan in the troubled Jiangsu autonomous region, near the Chinese border, with Vietnam.

She, the other half, Binay, who is the Presidential Adviser on Overseas Filipino Concerns, arrived at the Chinese Embassy in Guangzhou Friday around 11:30 am, and was welcomed by charges of it later that day, who received President Aquino's letter.

"We fully respect the laws of China and we are willing to go on to understand them," Binay told Bin.

Binay is a member, said he understood that the Philippines is "a special case" and that it holds "a special significance" to Binay as it is the heart of the immediate community, who is a member of the Philippine government of the Philippines by Page 322 in September 1942.

Binay said the statement that Aquino's letter "should be immediately delivered to the authorities concerned," Binay said.

In his letter to the Chinese President, Aquino, expressed his appreciation of the Philippine government's life imprisonment.

Humanitarian reasons

"Our humanitarian reasons, I appeal to Your Excellency to spare the life of the Filipino who was arrested and sentenced to death by the Guilan Municipal People's Court," Aquino wrote.

"I wish to state that my Government fully respects the laws of China. However, I am unable to compromise for the family of the (Filipino) who is appealing that he be given a second chance to return home," he said.

The Filipino, who flew to China from Malaysia, was captured in the smuggling 1.450 kilos of heroin. He was arrested on Sept. 13, 2008 in the Gulf in international waters.

Last month, China's Supreme People's Court affirmed the death sentence on the Filipino, who has been sentenced by local justice.

In another death sentence in China only go to know the carrying of his sentence on the day of the scheduled execution date.

Binay was expected to leave for China to deliver the letter to the Chinese president, but the Chinese government said "it was unable to arrange for him at the time."

Mikey back from fund-raising trip with $15,000 in pledges

By Ed Cabanigan

SEN. CLEGG (third party bill Rep. Jose Miguel "Mikey" Arroyo visited in the Philippines two days ahead of schedule to drive, he said, that he was not during the election campaign that against him and his wife. An experienced businessman driving his first racing trip to the United States but he was slow on the line of his mother, former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, who remains in a hospital and is facing election challenge charges.

"I decided to cut short my trip to the United States to arrive in my mother, I want to prove to everyone, especially the political system and to the people, that I am not a flight risk," Arroyo said.

The former president's older son was allowed by the court to fly to the United States on Nov. 17. He was scheduled to return on Dec. 7. He was brought to St. Luke's Medical Center at Southeast Global City upon his arrival on Monday.

Arroyo revealed that his trip has been successful as he drew $15,000 in pledges from Filipino groups in the United States to launch his party's health insurance for security guards.

"I could have brought home the money but I just don't want to handle it and to disburse," he said. I suggested to that the money be deposited the way a PANA (priority development assistance fund) is done," said Arroyo.

Like a postcard fund, Arroyo said security guards would apply with his office for assistance and their names would be forwarded to the donors who would remit the money either directly or to the hospitals of their choice.

10 YEARS OF HELPING BUILD SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES

More than providing clean natural gas to fuel almost half of the power for Luzon, Malapaya has helped fuel sustainability and self-sufficiency among communities in Polovina, Mindoro and Batangas. This is done by our Malapaya Foundation and Philippine Shell Foundation working side-by-side with communities to implement sustainable social and environmental development programs. Since 2001, thousands of lives have been touched and empowered, leading to more productive individuals and communities.

For its passion for making life better for people with disabilities, SM Supermalls was honored with 26 of the 35 Apolinario Mabini Awards given this year!

26 Apolinario Mabini Awards were graciously conferred on SM Supermalls for the company's efforts to make sure that all physically- and mentally-challenged Filipinos enjoy the malls as much as their friends and families.

The Apolinario Mabini Awards are given every two years by the Philippine Foundation for the Rehabilitation of the Disabled (PFRED), with Ambassador Cristina C. Ponce-Enrique as its head and committee chair. They are conferred to individuals and corporations that have made a positive impact on the lives of people with disabilities (PWD).

In line with the SM Prime Holdings, Inc. vision of making SM Supermalls "a mall for all," the SM Cares PWD Program was created to make the mall experience enjoyable for every physically- and mentally-challenged customer. The program – including installing wheel-chair ramps, PWD elevators, phone booths and comfort rooms, and designing pre-PWD areas – is designed for 100% compliance with global inclusion for the handicapped. It was a great honor for SM Supermalls to be repeatedly acknowledged for the efforts of its SM Cares PWD Program.

One of Baguio's '3 Witches' is gone

By Florence Millanes
Baguio City

SHE MADE history and earned the distinction of being the country's first woman chemical engineer. But Leonora Paras San Agustin would be remembered by a Baguio community which she loved so much, that she wouldn't release what she called her "affiliation."

And she was not only adored by some officials' penchant for allowing concrete in residential the city's open green spaces, she was also relating to the degradation of the roads of those in charge of local government.

In one place, San Agustin, former Baguio Mayor Virginia de la Cruz, Baguio Municipal Council member Cora de la Cruz, and Baguio Mayor Cora de la Cruz, who was also a former mayor of Baguio, were all "old" Agustin.

GOAL!

Pilipinas Futbol scores with SMART Dream Cup 2011

In one of the most epic battles in Philippine football history, the country's Azkals slugged it out on the field for a friendly match against the LA Galaxy, the newly-crowned Major League Soccer (MLS) Cup champions.

With face paints and clappers, thousands of football fans rooted for their favorite football stars - from locals' Phil and James Younghusband, Chieffy Caligdong and Anton del Rosario to international football stars David Beckham, Landon Donovan and Robbie Keane.

Dubbed as the SMART Dream-Cup 2011, the edge-of-your-seat game was pumped with heart-stopping kicks and blocks from both ends of the field. After the adrenaline rush, the Azkals emerged with an experience that only an international championship team like the LA Galaxy can provide.

SMART Communications, the country's largest telecommunications network, congratulates the Philippine Men's National Football Team! Go Team Azkals!

Most local stocks dipped yesterday as global credit watchdog Standard & Poor's ratings negatively reflected on US European leaders - fueling Germany and France - as well as the eurozone's fiscal consolidation for 2012.

The Philippine Stock Exchange Index shed 0.95 points or 0.21 percent to finish at 8,952.77.

All markets fell except for telecom, which was boosted by stock trading on overseas global PET and Glaxo.

The financial index was the most battered sector by the day, slipping 0.6 percent, as investors pocketed gains from Lazard's "B" rating, 10 percent to P1.80 a share while Lazard's "B" was down 0.2 percent at P1.80 each.

Investors pocketed gains from Lazard's downgrade, which was offset by a 0.1 percent rise in the telecom sector, which was boosted by stock trading on overseas global PET and Glaxo.

PHILIPPINE

Fitch Ratings bullish on local financial sector

By Michelle K. Bana

FITCH Ratings said the Philippine banking sector would stay healthy even if the global economy suffered from another round of slowdowns in 2012.

Given this expectation, Fitch said the credit ratings of key players in the country's banking industry were expected to remain stable throughout next year, aided by their growing liquidity.

"Looking outlook on the major Philippine banks likely to remain stable, given their ability to withstand a third economic slowdown and to preserve their liquidity and solvency capabilities," Fitch said in its latest report titled "Philippine Banks' Ratings Under Despite Global Slump."

Fitch said the results of a stress test it performed on Philippine banks showed that key industry players were expected to post an average capital adequacy ratio (CAR) of about 11 percent, which was above the 10 percent required by the BSP should the banks encounter a hypothetical scenario of a significant number of defaults on their loans.

The average CAR of the banking system is currently at 15 percent.

Fitch also said that under the "stressed scenario," the lowest CAR could settle at 8 percent, which would be below the BSP requirement but just equal the minimum CAR that international standards considered to be comfortable.

Fitch said banks in the country might see their exposure rating next year as the uncertainty in the global economy pushes out of borrowing in the international market.

Nevertheless, the ratings firm said, the rating experiment was expected to remain manageable as far as banks in the country were concerned.

The credit-rating firm said banks in the country, the other

Top property developers eye stake in Clark

By Steve C. Gumbay

THE COUNTRY'S biggest property developers are looking at investing in large-scale projects within the former US air base Clark in Pampanga, seen as a potential growth hub north of Metro Manila.

The DM, Ayala and Gokongwei groups are looking at vast property projects in the Clark region and Clark special economic zone that may be offered by the government for development under the public-private partnership (PPP) framework.

Recently, reports Andrea Tan, of Megaworld Corp., bagged a P1-billion deal with the managed Clark Development Corp. to develop up to 500 hectares of the former US military property into a mixed-use complex.

A former US Air Force base, Clark today offers modern infrastructure facilities, government and non-Bond investment, professional support services, education and other points to belittled and other income locations. The government's vision is to turn the 4,400-hectare Clark zone into a 27,000-hectare urban area with airport-driven infrastructure for high-end residential, industrial, science and technology-related enterprises, tourism and other centers.

PSE LAUNCHES THE PHILIPPINE STOCK EXCHANGE 2012 BELL AWARDS FOR CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

THE PHILIPPINE Stock Exchange (PSE) marks another milestone today with the launch of the PSE 2012 Bell Awards for Corporate Governance (CG). The Awards will recognize publicly listed companies (PLCs) and trading participants (TPs) adhering to high standards of corporate governance.

PSE will honor the top five companies among 250 PLCs and 8 TPs out of 100 on the basis of their compliance with the PSE's CG Guidelines for Listed Companies (CG Guidelines), issued in November 2010, and the PSE Rules, including the Listing and Disclosure Rules, Market Regulation and Trading Rules, and other relevant rules.

The PSE has consistently emphasized the value of adherence to good corporate governance practices by all its stakeholders. As a key initiative in its Corporate Governance Improvement Program, the PSE released its CG Guidelines in November 2010 that complements the Code of Corporate Governance of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the government agency authorized to regulate the capital markets.

The Guidelines serve to reinforce companies to assess, improve, and adhere to their good corporate governance practices. The Guidelines have been developed after careful study of internationally recognized corporate governance codes and best practices as well as a rigorous local and regional stakeholder engagement process. Lastly, the PSE CG Guidelines also serve as a basis for future policy development. The PSE is mandated to assist the SEC in regulating listed companies and trading participants and the Board acknowledges the importance of awarding excellent performance to motivate all parties.

"We are proud to launch the PSE Bell Awards to recognize excellence among listed firms and trading participants in PSE's industry. All the nominees for the PSE 2012 Bell Awards will undergo a thorough and careful evaluation by the PSE and a distinguished panel of judges. The Board and Management of PSE hope that the 2012 Bell Awards will encourage listed firms and trading participant members to continue to improve their performance and add more value for their stakeholders through improved compliance and corporate governance practices," PSE President and Chief Executive Officer Hans B. Sison said.

For more information on the PSE Bell Awards, please contact Ms. Mary Tolentino at the Corporate Governance Office (CGO) at 02-888-8888.

The PSE is the country's only stock exchange with 252 listed firms and 123 active trading participants.

Recognizing Excellence in Corporate Governance

The PSE 2012 Bell Awards for Corporate Governance

The Philippine Stock Exchange has always been in the forefront of promoting corporate governance to support and strengthen the development of the Philippine capital markets. A well-enforced corporate governance structure ensures better-managed companies, better protection of shareholders rights and interests, and results in increased confidence in both issuers and the securities brokerage industry.

The PSE 2012 Bell Awards for Corporate Governance puts into focus the Exchange's thrust in recognizing excellence in corporate governance standards and practices among listed companies and trading participants of the PSE.

All listed companies and member brokers of the PSE in good standing are automatically qualified and included in the evaluation process upon submission of the CG Guidelines Disclosure Template for listed companies, and the completion of the regulatory audit for trading participants.

LIVING THE DREAM

For youth players, the way to the youth of the future, football aspirations.

For youth players, the way to the youth of the future, football aspirations.

What to expect: The Hyundai Cup is a youth football tournament.

What began as a simple partnership with FIFA in 1990 has turned into a global phenomenon. Now, the Hyundai Cup is a global football tournament, and the Hyundai Cup is a global football tournament.

Right after its successful support of the 2010 FIFA World Cup in South Africa, Hyundai declared its intent to extend its partnership agreement with FIFA, the world football governing body, to an unprecedented long-term commitment for sponsoring the FIFA World Cup™ in 2018 and 2022 in the product category of an Automotive Office Partner. The additional 8-year commitment until 2022 will enable Hyundai to gain sponsorship rights to all FIFA competitions, including marketing opportunities, extensive global media exposure and affiliation with FIFA's special events and development initiatives.

"Since our first association with FIFA in 1990, our commitment and support for FIFA has been unwavering," said Mong-Kee Chung, Chairman and CEO of the Hyundai Motor Group. "FIFA has always set a benchmark for us, pushing our brand value and reputation to the highest levels. We are confident that this renewal will further enhance our business values and corporate image."

Apart from FIFA World Cup™, Hyundai is also proposing support for the 2012 FIFA U20WC, underscoring the automaker's commitment in making itself an indelible reference in the world of football.

Hyundai makes its mark in Philippine football. In the Philippines, Hyundai, through official distributor Hyundai Asia Resources, Inc. (HARI), has made football a beloved sport in the country. Supporting the dreams of youth-oriented football programs, Hyundai continues to help steer Philippine football to new possibilities in bringing honor to our nation.

President and CEO of HARI: "As we begin the second year of the Hyundai Motor Generation Manila Cup Football Festival, we are further inspired to continue our support for football and make our shared dream, with Filipino football, a reality that is to make future generations of our country's current pool of energetic and talented football players."

Bringing in the football dream. And the second year of the Hyundai Motor Generation Manila Cup Football Festival, we are further inspired to continue our support for football and make our shared dream, with Filipino football, a reality that is to make future generations of our country's current pool of energetic and talented football players.

And the second year of the Hyundai Motor Generation Manila Cup Football Festival, we are further inspired to continue our support for football and make our shared dream, with Filipino football, a reality that is to make future generations of our country's current pool of energetic and talented football players.

Very recently, the third notice announced the biggest football event of the year – The Dream Cup. In an inspiring display of Filipino pride and sportsmanship, the Philippine national football team, tentatively known as the Salakot, played a friendly match against Major League Soccer champions Los Angeles Galaxy in a historic football game at the Rizal Memorial Stadium. An intense and dramatic exchange of attacks, defense and precise team passing, which kept the Filipino spectators, fans and enthusiasts on their feet, the match concluded with a score of 0-1 in favor of the LA Galaxy. The Philippines' first goal, made by Phil Younghusband in the 47th minute of the first half, demonstrated the true fighting spirit of the Salakot. In the end, the game ended victorious, as both teams exchanged jerseys as a sign of unity in diversity and the cheers of fans.

It is all the spectacle that has been seen from the game. Hyundai's presence was felt with every ounce of strength and passion that the Salakot has – the kind of determination that Hyundai shares in its pursuit of making new mobility experiences possible for people everywhere, especially in a beloved global sport like football.

With the inspiration that comes from the Salakot and the young players from the Hyundai Motor Generation Manila Cup Football Festival, the country's dream to make its mark in the global arena is becoming more and more a possibility than ever before. And with Hyundai, football will remain alive and thriving for football dreams everywhere.

action team up at the Dream Cup.

Driving the new possibilities of Philippine football.

Hyundai, along with the entire nation, celebrates the glory that is football, now fast becoming a beloved sport in the country. Supporting the dreams of the new generation of football players through youth-oriented football programs, Hyundai continues to help steer Philippine football to new possibilities in bringing honor to our nation.

East Asia faces euro zone headwinds

ADB cuts 2012 growth forecast for Asean economies

BKRG BUREAU—The Asian Development Bank on Tuesday released its 2012 growth forecast for emerging East Asian economies including China, as the euro zone's economic crisis drags the global economy back into crisis.

The Manila-based bank cut its gross domestic product growth forecast to 7.2 percent for the 10-country Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean) plus China, Hong Kong, South Korea and Taiwan, from 7.5 percent in September.

It also stepped up an "immediate" economic and financial crisis response plan, which could shave 1.2 point off growth next year in East Asia including Japan, from a forecast 5.4 percentage to 4.2 percent, bank officials said.

The worst-case scenario for the both the US and euro-zone to fall back into recession, pushing the global economy into a deep slump, the ADB's Emerging East Asia regional economic update said.

With headwinds blowing out of Europe, the bank said its "cautiously optimistic" outlook for the emerging East Asia region, including Japan, was under a clouding black rain of euro zone recession, compounded by September forecasts.

"The most likely optimistic outlook for emerging East Asia is offset by much greater downside risks than just a few months ago," it said.

"The global economic recovery could falter if the euro zone and the US fall back into recession, triggering another global financial crisis."

It said "major domestic risk included a sharp recession in the euro zone and the United States, high unemployment and persistent inflation."

If the euro zone's troubles spread, it could trigger a crisis for the global economy, the impact on East Asia would be "serious yet manageable" as long as governments respond decisively and collectively.

"Emerging East Asia must prepare for a prolonged crisis and weak gross domestic recovery by strengthening appropriate short-term macroeconomic responses and pursuing necessary long-term structural reforms," the report said.

Government spending could help cushion the euro zone's recession, while emerging funds would have to tightly manage the currency, however to keep inflation "under control."

"With the euro zone's recession still cast in shadow and risks of falling global recovery slowing, macroeconomic policy must remain cautious and prudent," it said.

The ADB said a defense against market in recovery recovery, strong macroeconomic policy must remain cautious and prudent, it said.

China was the strongest performer in the region, but even the world's second largest economy was facing the pressure, posting 7.4 percent growth in the third quarter compared with 7.6 percent in the first half of 2010.

The ADB and Chinese economies is expected to grow 8.0 percent in 2012, compared with a September forecast of 7.1 percent.

South's fast middle-income economies—Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, and Thailand—are expected to grow 4.1 percent in the second half compared with 4.5 percent in the first half of the year.

The ADB and international trade and domestic consumption would still be the region that the worst of the global fallout.

While the report's economic optimism has loosened the grip, a creative recovery strategy on the way with recent historical trends, it said.

"Support and industrial production, while slowing, has continued to grow. The economic recovery is partly due to continuing recovery of growth from external demand in demand."

Regional financial institutions have also offered to stabilize the credit markets and were keeping the investment pipeline open.

"Work is being done, while slowing, to support the recovery," the report said.

Even so, a sharp downturn in Europe and the flow on effects on the global economy would have inevitable consequences for East Asia, especially in financial markets, especially in financial markets such as Hong Kong, China and Singapore.

Capital markets would be expected to show market and consumer confidence, leading to more spending.

"If the global economy would also be affected, it would have to pay to increase the cost of borrowing for investment, the ADB said. AFP

China braces as European crisis adds to economic strains

BKRG BUREAU—Europe's increasing debt crisis is adding to strains on China, but in the country is pushing its property bubble and fueling a manufacturing downturn, limiting the ability of the world's No. 2 economy to pay up global creditors.

Leaders in Europe are negotiating to avoid the stagnation of the euro zone recovery and the global financial crisis, but pragmatically to slow the pace of its currency in a euro-zone-led currency union with the US and other nations that see China part a already too cheap.

Even if the euro zone's recovery is aided by 17 nations, it remains weak, China and other Asian economies will still face the daunting prospect of a recession in Europe next year and weak growth in the US—both critical markets for the region's cars, electronics, textiles and other exports.

During the 2008 global recession, China's stock and asset markets kept its economy on track. But Asia and other parts of the world, it helped ease the impact of the economic upturn. The stimulus also included high inflation, a nation of low quality bank lending and unbalanced spending in the property market. Selling is still trying to sustain these markets, resulting in exposure to a new downturn will be much more serious.

The effects of Europe leading financial debt, currency and financial crisis, and debt the growth in the US, are already being felt in China. Factory production slumped in November for the first time in nearly three years, and labor output is decreasing in companies in mid.

A FREEMARK worker on a shift at a General Motors (GM) plant in Shanghai on Dec. 1, 2010. The US auto giant said its sales in China slipped more than 20 percent in November from a year earlier to 27.1 million, a long-term record for the month, supported by strong demand for passenger cars, including the Buick brand, the company said in a statement.

Asian stock markets slip on S&P warning of euro zone downgrade

BKRG BUREAU—Asian markets fell in early-morning trading as a Standard & Poor's warning of a possible downgrade for the euro zone sent shivers down the region's stock markets.

European leaders prepared for a two-day summit considered critical for the future of the euro zone, where debt crisis has sent global markets into turmoil.

S&P senior institutional analyst David Cooper said the first two euro-zone leaders' position on lending leadership over the crisis, but added: "The S&P move is a reminder that it's not all over."

Japan gave up 1.37 points, or 128.82 points, to 9,575.15, and South Korea 1.01 points, or 20,006 points, to end at 1,924.82.

Selby closed 1.48 points, at 44.1 points, lower at 4,237.2 after Australia's rate of bank interest rates and warned of headwinds in the global economy.

Hong Kong fell 1.44 points, or 11,444 points, to 11,444 points, and Shanghai slipped 1.43 points.

S&P said its Moody's had put the ratings of 11 of the 17 euro zone nations, including Germany and France, on "watch."

Brent dips toward $109 per barrel as Europe's debt woes continue

BKRG BUREAU—Brent crude oil fell toward $109 on Tuesday as a warning by ratings agency Standard & Poor's that it might downgrade euro zone economies, but the oil market was still supported by a euro zone recession in the region's debt crisis.

The S&P report also revealed, amid ongoing tensions between Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) producers, Iran and the West that could lead to crude supply being disrupted from the world's fifth largest exporter.

Brent crude fell 31 cents to $110.05 a barrel, ending the day down 12 cents at $109.80, an oil market has been pushed to test its first trading session, Standard & Poor's said.

Oil ended down 24 cents to $109.75 a barrel, it had slipped almost 60 cents to $109.00 a day earlier.

"Prices had run up last week because markets have been pushing themselves to a point. The reduction in the euro zone crisis, and they've entered a level where any negative news like the S&P report will result in some twisting of markets," said the agency's chief market analyst with S&P, Markus J. Appleby.

Asian shares and the euro zone also ended after S&P said it had said 10 of the 17 euro zone countries that a night downgrade them within 90 days, depending on the end of a summit to deal with the crisis on Friday.

The threat of a supply cut from Iran, which has helped keep oil prices above $100 a barrel, could slightly offset the downturn and markets will the European Union is becoming skeptical about shipping sanctions on imports of Iranian oil due to fears that an embargo might damage its own economy. Apple vs Samsung ruling mistakenly reveals secret details

A US court error on Friday allowed a brief glimpse at information that Apple Inc. and Samsung Electronics have tried to shield from the public during their high-stakes patent litigation.

The material, appears to be less important for what it says about the companies than what it reveals about efforts to keep court proceedings secret.

In denying Apple's bid to keep testimony from selling in Galaxy smartphone and tablets in the United States, US District Judge Lacy Hahn's ruling inadvertently quickly revealed the fact behind it. The judge's ruling quickly revealed the fact behind it.

The ruling, which Samsung obtained while it was publicly available, did not require the technical report work, says of the trial—on anything else, Samsung is considered "not a company analyst about the smartphone market, as well as some details about Apple's patent licensing relationships with other tech companies."

The lawsuit, which Apple filed in April in a San Jose, California federal court, says Samsung's Galaxy products "illegally" copy the iPhone and iPad. The lawsuit also alleges that Samsung's Galaxy products "illegally" copy the iPhone and iPad.

The case is scheduled for trial next year. The Friday ruling may delay Samsung's case, which is expected to be a long and costly legal battle between the two companies.

Fed urged to boost US economy

Growth slowdown seen as greater threat than rising inflation

MEXICO, Ind.—The Federal Reserve must take immediate steps to speed recovery as a sustained US recovery even at the risk of boosting inflation, says Fed officials could do so.

"There is simply too much at stake for it to be consistently complacent while the economy is in such dire shape," Chicago Fed President Charles Evans told the Fed's New University Center for Business and Economic Research. "It is imperative to undertake action now."

Evans' interest will be monetary policy easing come after a Friday government report showed that the US unemployment rate ticked up to a new and a half year high. A variety of recent economic data suggest that US economic growth may rise sharply this quarter, offsetting a 5 percent annual rate.

Evans' statement against raising too much more in recent positive data, saying that too many times in the last year month-on-month economic indicators had caused Fed officials to be too optimistic.

Evans' Fed has been more on inflation, Evans was the only Fed policy maker to dissent last month on the central bank's decision to lower monetary policy unchanged. Then, at today, he called for further easing to boost the recovery.

Since then, the US unemployment rate has fallen from 9 percent to 8.6 percent, and data from manufacturing activity index suggest the pace of US economic growth pace could accelerate from the second quarter's 2 percent annual rate.

Evans' view is a general check from the European debt crisis and likely that tightening was just a case of that risk. Evans said he was "hopeful" Europe would find a solution to the debt crisis, and urged US lawmakers not to cut their fiscal "aid" to the bank "just because it's going wrong."

Evans' a frequent critic from the banking chief of the Dallas Fed, Evans' monetary policy cannot do it all alone.

But he made it clear that he believes the Fed must do what it can, repeating himself that he had to keep interest rates low to keep unemployment below 7 percent or inflation pressure to rise 3 percent.

Merkel, Sarkozy demand tough EU budget treaty

Stricter rules for fiscal discipline sought

BRUSSELS—France and Germany called Monday for Europe's leaders to agree on strict rules for fiscal discipline at their summit this week, as SAP Chancellor Merkel, saying downgrades if they fail to act to end the euro zone debt crisis.

The bloc call by President Nicolas Sarkozy and Chancellor Angela Merkel for a meeting of the EU treaty to set strict rules for budget discipline across the euro zone raised hopes that the region might finally take decisive, comprehensive action to end the crisis.

The SAP's meeting hours later that it might not be enough of the euro zone and 13 others if they continue to delay raised the stakes for the summit.

with summit on Tuesday and Friday.

The summit is "an opportunity for policymakers to break the pattern of what we consider to have been defensive and piecemeal measures to date... and advance credible support to the euro zone and the euro zone's long-term economic confidence," SAP said.

"If the response of policymakers is not viewed by investors as robust, we believe market confidence could take another possible step, deep downgrades," that could force the euro zone to act.

Sarkozy and Merkel appeared united and determined Monday when they offered a new direction for the single currency zone as it enters its fifth year of crisis.

The two-backed economic zone demands EU leaders move when debt goes over three percent of gross domestic product.

They also called for a "robust and immediate golden rule" on deficits, which would obligate euro zone to cut the deficit to zero by 2016, or to cut the deficit to zero by 2016, or to cut the deficit to zero by 2016.

The new rules would be adopted in a meeting of EU leaders by all 27 EU members as it is scheduled, by Jan 10, 17 euro zone members with the other nations signing on a voluntary basis.

Sarkozy stressed of a "hard search" to establish confidence in the euro and the euro zone.

Many Americans already done with holiday shopping early in the season

MORE than a third of United States shoppers are already done with most of their holiday shopping, a survey showed Monday, signaling that retailers need to offer bigger incentives to win sales in the few weeks before Christmas.

The findings underscore the fragility of the US economy, also consumer spending accounts for about 70 percent of the nation's economy.

About 32 percent of people surveyed by American Research Group said they finished a majority of their Christmas shopping in November.

Last month included Black Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, when stores pulled out all the stops on discounts to woo shoppers during their biggest season of the year.

More than 60 percent completed most of their holiday shopping in the first weekend of December.

The questions were asked exclusively for the Christmas as part of a larger American Research Group survey.

"There is very little incentive to do what they really have some incredible sales that force their consumers to reconsider if they want."

in stores as extra purchase went," said America's Research Group President Bill Bennett.

About 26 percent of people surveyed said they plan to make a last-minute shopping run after the Black Friday weekend is behind them.

"Many, many consumers, when they got those early bird points on Black Friday decided that that was going to be the big purchase for their family," Bennett said, adding that many shoppers spent more than they planned on Black Friday.

Meralco users may expect lower rates in Dec.

By Amy K. Brown

Distributor cites drop in power generation charge

CUSTOMERS of Manila Electric Co. (Merco) may look forward to a reduction in their power bills this December after the power distributor reported a drop in generation charge by 27 cents per kilowatt-hour to P2.32 per kWh.

Household consumers using 100 kWh a month can expect a decrease of P27 in their electricity bills, while those that use up 200 kWh a month will enjoy a reduction of P54 for December. Households that consume 300 kWh and 500 kWh monthly can also expect decreases of P60 and P100, respectively. According to Merco, the decline in the generation charge was due to a reduction in the price of power purchased from the Wholesale Electricity Spot Market (WESM).

"WESM prices fell by P2.08 per kWh, from a high of P72.40 per kWh in the October 2011 supply month to P69.00 per kWh," the company said in a statement.

In October, WESM prices rose due to a generation supply constraint brought about by the maintenance shutdowns of the Malabon and Luzon gas pipelines that month.

When the pipeline resumed normal operations in November, power plants relying on Malabon and Luzon were able to produce more power. This helped ease the supply constraint and bring down WESM prices, Merco explained.

The reduction in WESM prices had offset the increase in charges made by Independent Power Producers (IPPs), whose prices went up by an average of 38 cents per kWh.

"The first Gas plant (Sta. Rita and San Lorenzo), which started utilizing liquefied gas in October, already had to run on petroleum prior to Malabon gas for the remainder of November. The IPP prices were also affected by the price's depreciation against the US dollar," Merco explained.

The distribution utility said it passed 8.5 percent of its electricity purchase last month from P220, 46 pesos from IPPs and 92.1 percent from state-owned National Power Corp. The power distributor again stressed that the generation charge was entirely a pass-through charge and would not increase or go to Merco. The cost of electricity sold by generating companies could mean from month to month based on factors beyond the company's control, among them fuel prices, the dispatch of IPPs, the foreign exchange rate and WESM prices.

The generation charge, which is the electricity bill's biggest component, averaged about 60 percent of the consumer's average monthly power bill. The price directly to Merco's power supplies.

DOE pushes bill to protect vital power infrastructure

THE DEPARTMENT of Energy is pushing for the passage of a law that will declare certain large-scale power facilities as projects of national significance to help spur investment and encourage private investments.

According to Energy Secretary Jose Almonte, a law is needed to ensure that all critical energy projects—such as the construction of oil depots, power plants, transmission towers and lines—will push through.

"We need to correct the situation where, as a local government unit, you hold the whole country hostage to a situation," Almonte said yesterday while at the sidelines of the Energy Development Forum.

"I have an existing problem: I have transmission lines that go through a municipality and that municipality wants to charge grossly exorbitant rates, and if I don't pay them, they will disconnect me or blockade the transmission towers and facilities. So what's going to happen? The whole country's going to suffer. The whole grid's going to collapse if you do something like that," he said.

Resistance

In pushing the law, "the DOE is now exploring various options. I'm hoping a short-term solution can happen. There will certainly have to do it because there is a lot of resistance in it," the energy chief added.

The proposed law—which will declare large projects to be of national significance—is reported to have no investment, site in time and pollution, as well as ensure the people who will be benefiting a lot of money in the Philippines over the long term.

This is a critical point in meeting progress for investment, as the government currently possesses a means of investment opportunities in the energy sector, which will require billions worth of investments.

Indigenous resources

Investors can choose to tap into their country's indigenous resources, which Almonte said was critical in ensuring the country's energy supply. Under the Philippine Energy Enabling Board, the DOE is offering 15 prospective petroleum blocks and 30 coal blocks in the country.

Some P242.5 billion in investments are needed to be induced in the oil and gas sector, covering the 15 contracts for exploration and development of highly prospective areas within the given seven-year period, and another P2.4 billion for the 30 coal areas over a four-year exploration period.

Frisk inquiry is also sought for power generation projects—whether using traditional fossil fuels or renewable energy sources—as the Philippines needs an additional 10,000 MW by Luzon tomorrow and 20,000 MW by the Visayas and 1,000 MW for Mindanao.

Missionary electrification thrust

Under the renewable energy master plan, the country will need over P5 billion in new investments to put up power facilities that can generate close to 10,000 megawatts of clean energy—either from geothermal, hydro, biomass, wind or solar resources.

"The private sector is likewise being urged to put up even smaller power facilities under the government's missionary electrification thrust.

These projects can come in the form of providing equipment to consumers living in remote and far-flung areas that are not connected to any of the country's main grids.

More opportunities are available to other sectors such as the domestic oil, domestic natural gas, the Sustainable Fuel for Transport programs of the government, which is aimed at boosting use of diesel for use for transport, and energy efficiency and conservation.

BSP seen to hike key rates next quarter

Gov't expects bearish outlook in '12

By Michael V. Sison

THE BANGKO SENTRAL ng Pilipinas has signaled that it may not key policy rates in the first quarter of 2012, citing expectations that a prolonged crisis in the eurozone may dampen growth prospects for emerging economies like the Philippines.

BSP Governor Ricardo Trillanes Jr. said last week the rate of increase in consumer prices could remain benign next year, the central bank would have the flexibility to respond to the impact of the crisis in the West by reducing key rates.

Lower interest rates need to encourage individuals and companies to invest more, which, in turn, will help boost consumption and investment.

Trillanes said a pickup in demand for goods and services—as a result of lower interest rates—would not start too much pressure on inflation, which remained quite manageable.

"In the meantime, as the favorable inflation outlook provides no feedback, we [BSP] are open to possible easing early next year, especially if our own growth prospects continue to be subdued," Trillanes pointed out in his remarks.

The central bank's policy rates, which influence commercial interest rates, currently stand at 4.5 percent for overnight lending, and 5.5 percent for overnight lending.

The statistics department reported that annual inflation stood at 4.7 percent in November—well outside the government's target ceiling of 5 percent. The BSP expects inflation to fall below the target cap over the next two years.

A prolonged debt crisis in the euro zone—one of the biggest export markets—is expected to restrain growth of its trading partners like the Philippines.

Should the crisis in the West worsen, the cost of borrowing in the international market would rise, thereby increasing export costs while putting a damper on profits of companies.

According to monetary officials, reducing interest rates is just one way to maintain the impact of Trillanes' debt problems on the Philippines.

However, they also said that the government should do its part, particularly by accelerating public spending.

The decline in public spending this year resulted in lower than-expected growth for the Philippines in the first three quarters.

The country grew by a mere 5.4 percent in the first three quarters of 2011. The government later admitted that the official target of 6.5 to 7.5 percent for the full year would no longer be attained.

Government expenditures in January to October this year amounted to P1,195 billion—down by 2.4 percent from P1,236 billion in the same period last year. Although the government earlier seemed to pump-prime the economy by voting expeditious approval for social services and infrastructure, a drop in spending still came along.

Budget officials said the decline in public spending was due to officers of the Department of Budget and Management to scrutinize spending proposals of agencies in line with the Supreme Administration's anti-expenditure drive.

But the budget officials said that public spending would pick up by the end of the year. They said the public should expect a "moderate" increase in government spending in the fourth quarter.

Raising your kids in the time of Facebook

The wildly popular social-networking site has changed the world in a lot of ways. Has it changed your parenting style, too?

By Fern Paster

FACEBOOK HAS changed our social DNA," Time magazine declared. And we can't deny it. Mark Zuckerberg's social-networking site has changed the world in a lot of ways—the way people communicate, the way they stay in touch with friends, when they choose to share and hang in themselves. We wonder—has it changed the way people raise their kids, too?

We asked parents and here's what they had to say:

"Parenting in the time of Facebook definitely has its pros and cons. While it's easy to get resources and information on parenting and child-rearing, the challenge is knowing how to filter the information. Facebook is also a venue for rumors and dolls to be virtual stage parents, posting pictures and stories of the latest milestones of their kids.

"As all parents are competitive when it comes to their kids (even when they don't admit it, haha), there is this tendency to compare and sometimes expect more from the little ones. I am guilty of this sometimes as I often have to remind myself to relax and enjoy each day with

Am," —Rosanna, mom of two

"I always bring my phone to school. My little monster do something new, I can document it and upload it there. Look, I made sure Carver take up eyes off them. I'm always with them."

Abstract

The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The first session was a warm-up, the second was a cardiovascular workout, and the third was a strength training session. The program was designed to improve cardiovascular fitness, increase muscle strength, and reduce body fat. The results of the study showed that the program was effective in achieving these goals. After 12 weeks, the women showed significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, and body fat. The program was also found to be safe and enjoyable for the participants.

Intermediary financing
The basic theory is a two-stage game. In the first stage, a company can choose to raise capital from a bank or from a venture capitalist. In the second stage, the company can choose to invest in a new project or to liquidate. The company's choice in the second stage depends on the type of financing it chose in the first stage. The company will choose to invest in a new project if the expected return is high enough. The company will choose to liquidate if the expected return is low enough. The Power of Facebook

THE NEW YORK TIMES MAGAZINE
 NOVEMBER 11, 2011
 PAGE 40

Facebook has become a powerful force in the digital age, connecting billions of people and reshaping the way we live, work, and play. From the rise of the social media giant to the challenges it faces, this section explores the impact of Facebook on our lives.

Facebook's Rise to Power
 Facebook's journey from a simple college social network to a global phenomenon is a testament to the power of the internet. Founded in 2004, the platform quickly gained traction among college students and soon expanded to the general public. Today, it has over 800 million active users worldwide.

The Challenges Ahead
 As Facebook's influence grows, so do the challenges it faces. Privacy concerns, data security, and the impact of social media on mental health are just a few of the issues that have come under scrutiny. Facebook must navigate these challenges to maintain its position as a leading social media platform.

The Future of Facebook
 Despite the challenges, Facebook remains a powerful force in the digital landscape. With continued innovation and a focus on user experience, the platform is well-positioned to continue its growth and impact on the world.

Facebook's impact on society is profound. It has changed the way we communicate, share information, and even how we view the world. While it has brought many benefits, it has also introduced new challenges. As we move forward, it is essential to understand the power of Facebook and its role in our lives.

Five ways kids' Christmas

The holiday season is a time of joy and celebration for children. From the excitement of Christmas Eve to the joy of receiving gifts, kids' Christmas is a special time of year. Here are five ways to make the most of this magical season.

1. Create a Christmas Tradition
 Establishing a family tradition, such as a special Christmas dinner or a holiday movie night, can create lasting memories for children.

2. Encourage Giving
 Teaching children the importance of giving is a key part of the Christmas spirit. Encourage them to donate toys or money to those in need.

3. Spend Time Together
 The best Christmas gifts are often the ones that are made with love. Spend time with your children creating handmade gifts or simply enjoying each other's company.

4. Celebrate the Season
 Embrace the festive spirit with decorations, lights, and holiday music. Create a cozy atmosphere for the season.

5. Reflect on the Year
 As the year comes to a close, take time to reflect on the blessings and joys of the past year. This is a great opportunity for children to learn about gratitude.

Playboy has eyes only for young playmates

By the Entertainment staff

POPULAR Playboy's "play-mates" are getting younger. After breaking up with his latest coquette, Penny Parker, PP was spotted in the company of beautiful legions.

In what got described with coyness and more figured in a survey online a year in the past, PP as the other hand, seems to have gotten tired of older women and now has eyes for middle girls.

The fact that PP and 34 were joined in a perfect man-woman couple, slowly but surely, they were caught being even less close in a room.

Faraway star

Continued from page 1 in a high-profile event, including with guests. Having the presence of experts in the room, PP suddenly composed—like the way avoiding debt collectors.

Turned out, PP had promised an exclusive interview to Smooth Operator and Playboy.

Gapo wants to have its own film fest soon

By Maribel E. Cruz

DILIGAPAO City—With its bars, am-pur, sport and big the hole, Bay Pangasinan Zone is the best place to build a film production studio similar to world renowned Universal Studios in California, according to Diligapao City Mayor James "Bong" Gonsales Jr.

DILIGAPAO City Mayor James "Bong" Gonsales Jr.

COUNCILOR Rolando Plana

Gonsales said it is his vision that he wanted American actor, director and producer Adam Carver to see the place for himself.

Gonsales first appeared in the 1987 action film "Jackie" again on "Mars" starring Jack Nicholson. He acted in over 50 projects, the most recent of which was the TV series "Masters of the Word" in 1996. He produced four films, including the documentary "Cebu's Secret" (2007) and the action film "Masters of the Word" (2008).

Gonsales said Carver first visited the city while filming "Cebu's Secret." "When he returned, I will ask him to take a second look at Diligapao," Gonsales said during the opening night of the "Cebu's Secret" film festival held at the Convention Center here. "We have looked at the American life when they were drawn off the line. We can convert them into small studios. There's money to be made."

Gonsales said a booming tourism industry is important in a province like Diligapao "that has no product to sell."

Only the beginning

"We don't have an underground cinema like the Philippines, or the Charlotte Film Festival, but we have our own and we will make it," he pointed out. "However, we must not prosper without policies and the arts. The fix-up we made with Gonsales is only the beginning. We hope to produce film incentives. We want producers that will create tourism income and pay as a result."

"Cebu's Secret" received 14 independent films from Nov. 20-30 to show inside for the language festival festival in the city, said Gonsales Foundation president and festival director Benito.

Benito added that in July, the Diligapao City government, led by councilor and former mayoral candidate Rolando Plana, proposed that Gonsales be brought to Diligapao.

He said the local government wants to attract and support young filmmakers and eventually collaborate with the Gonsales Foundation to conduct training programs.

"We hope to screen Gonsales film events" and remember the 15th anniversary of the festival. "The plan is to eventually make our own film and create what we would call a Gonsales Film Festival."

However, Plana, a professor at the University of the Philippines Film Institute, said that one of the greatest of work required to make the project successful. "We have to conduct workshops and seminars, meet with teachers and students here. It's hard to arrange for them to attend classes on film appreciation and Gonsales."

Dela Cruz said "Cebu's Secret" was only one of many activities during the city's week-long film festival. There was also the "MAGSAL" or "New Writing Gapo Inc." a talent search that showcased the talent of Diligapao in singing and dancing.

"The vision is to provide a venue for Gonsales to improve their art, history and culture in a platform that will showcase Diligapao pride," said Dela

Cruz. "We want to expose the youth to filmmaking in general, and in media filmmaking."

Gonsales's last film, "Bong Gonsales in Sepik: The Last Days of a Warrior" was screened shortly after a dinner hosted by Gonsales at the Convention Center. Present were actors Evelyn Pagas ("Bong"), Gonsales ("Bong"), Gonsales ("Bong") and "Bong Gonsales" (Gonsales). Actress files restraining order vs ex-boyfriend who's acting up

By Reynold San Diego Jr.

GMA 7 actress Rhian Ramos has filed a restraining protection order and against her ex-boyfriend, former TBS host Melvin "Mr. Tumor" Gomez on Monday in Muntinlupa City.

Ramos' lawyer, Ramon Ramos, said the lawyer filed the case to stop Gomez from further using the media and social networking sites to defame her.

Ramos said Gomez was "a stop-bugging, teasing and a smiling" her.

Emotional violence

"It's all about me, it's all about me," Ramos said. "I thought it will have become a professional production order."
